

A Vision of Covering

February 9, 2021

A couple of days ago I was asking my Father about how to increase the angelic activity around my home and family. I was inspired as the Apostle spoke of the relationship he had with his angels. I was thanking God that he had that angelic assistance and prayed that we in the body would increase in our understanding of angels and develop relationships with them. A little time passed and as I was working, I saw a vision:

I saw a large pond with very calm water. Suddenly, a good-sized rock fell in the middle of the pond and the waves began to radiate out from where the rock fell. Then as the wake of these waves began to spread, smaller rocks in front of the main rock began to fall creating their own circle of waves within the main waves, then another rock fell in the middle creating another cycle. After the second rock fell, several smaller rocks fell creating their own circle of waves. And the process continued through several cycles and the impression was that this was perpetual activity...

Interpretation:

I immediately knew that this was a picture of the powerful revelations that the Apostle gets from Heaven. The body of water represented those that have an ear to hear. The rocks were dropped by the angels of Heaven. These revelations intervene in still waters that represent rest but also inactivity. The rocks that fell in front of the main rock were the seers. Their revelations were covered by the Apostolic waves, but I was especially impressed that the seer's waves would also radiate over where the Apostle's waves were originated from. The smaller rocks that fell were pictures of many individual gifts and callings that have their own circle of influence within the main waves.

The Apostle provides covering, and his angels bring revelations from Heaven that stir up and release gifts. The seer's gift flows from under his covering but also impacts his gifting which stirs up more revelation. As he releases more revelation, more gifts are stirred up and released with their own circle of influence.

Then I saw another picture...As this process of the waves continued, the constant beating of the waves on the shore began to erode the land. The impression was that the erosion was making space for more water. A momentum was increasing, and rivers were about to break through the land, all fed by the constant stirring of the original body of water. It was clear to me that the land represented the unsaved and religiously bound people that were being overtaken by the relentless activity of the water. The land had no ability to stop the water.

“Rejoice, Remnant Church! Keep flowing together in unity under the authority I have provided for you. In this season, many of you will begin to meet and have relationship with your angels! I have given them charge over you to protect and assist you. They will bring you strategy, provision, revelation, help and miracles from Heaven! In this time, supernatural demonstration is the only way to pierce through the deception that is rampant. It will be my pleasure and joy to work through my Remnant Church greater works than even My Son did when He was on the Earth.

Your relentless pursuit of Me, says the Lord, is beginning to weaken the resistance and the land is giving way to Rivers, yes, Rivers of Revival. A Revival that will begin to erode man’s government and the man-made system. The River of My Government will overtake them, for the increase of My Government will have no end! Stay strong and diligent, my Remnant church, you are special to Me! I have chosen to work through you, yes you! To shake the heavens and the Earth. My Word is sure, says your God!”
